Fetch A 'CHAMP!'

'Charged' By New, Wireless Technology!

How much is that doggie in the window. Nothing – if you play one of Video King's newest gaming devices, the CHAMP-e™ Android tablet. The dog with his nose pressed against the screen, so eager to play, is just one of the novel features we offer in this new generation of high-tech, gaming tablets.

In addition to more enhanced, high-res graphics, this portable, touch-screen device includes a series of animations, featuring our rascally canine mascot, "Champ" – in a variety of new poses.

Not to mention brighter, 1280 x 800-pixel screen, greater processing power for more complex patterns and 10-plus hour run time, in a sleek, new design.

Yes, this Wi-Fi tablet, with increased levels of animation, is a whole new dimension in gaming, capable of playing both cash and our spectacular line of credit-based games, now with dynamic themes, free cards and bonus rounds.

And, here's another tail-wagger ... The tablets are charged by our patent-pending, wireless charge rack. Virtually fool-proof, theft-proof and incredibly easy to service, the CHARGE-e uses conductive technology to create a charge. Key features include a sliding door, that can be key-locked, further enhancing security measures.

Capable of holding 10 tablets per rack, its power supply and mechanical workings are all serviceable from the front, greatly impacting maintenance ease. To charge simply place the tablets horizontally on the shelves, like you would a pan in the oven. Once on the shelf, there is no possibility for misalignment, since there are no connectors. Just be sure to let them out, 'cause these puppies want to play!
